Introduction

- REF as an opportunity to highlight contributions to research and university missions
- SCONUL report (2017): dividing lines between libraries and other areas of the university are blurred; difficult for libraries to demonstrate their contribution?
- Competition from other departments and external suppliers
- Involvement to date in RAE/REF tends to be around providing copies of submitted articles
- Since 2014, talk centered around the REF Open Access Policy: "You must deposit your work in the university repository within 3 months of acceptance for publication"

Quality of Outputs

- Expert review of originality, significance and rigour
- Submissions to units of assessment are given a quality profile: % of publications in 1-star to 4-star categories
- Citation data taken as one indicator of academic significance by some panels, but not primary tool of assessment
- Panels will not use Journal Impact Factors or other bibliometric analyses

Library contributions:

- In-depth bibliometric advice
- Help in selecting papers

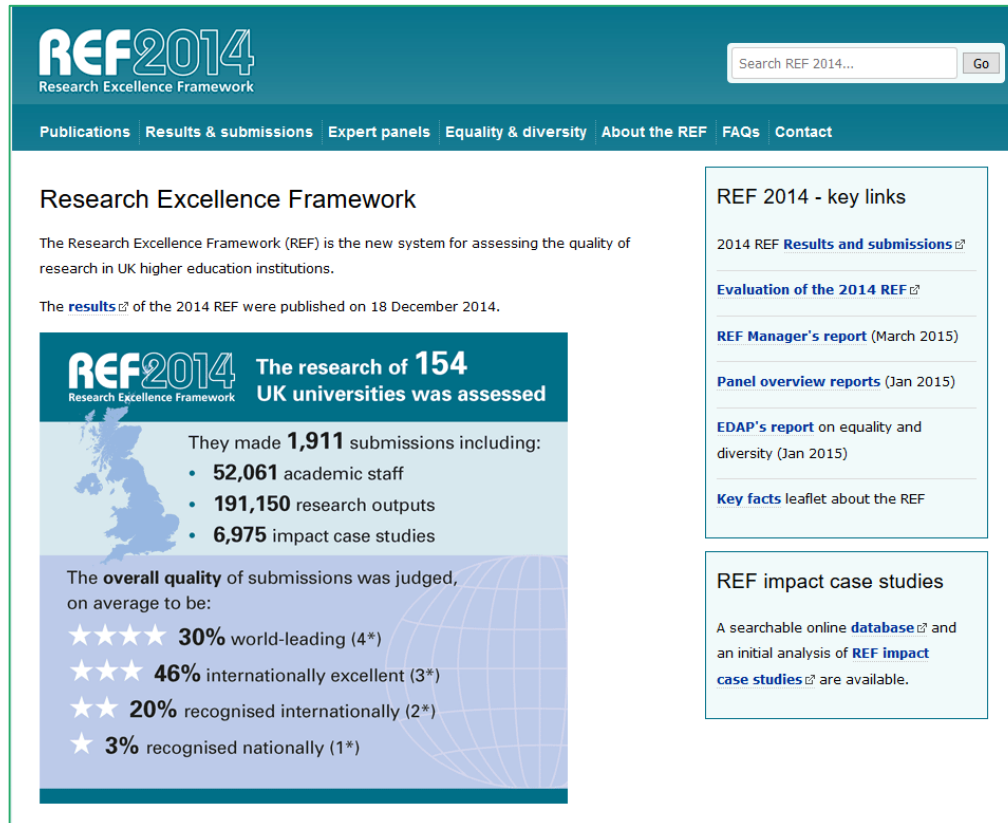

- Assessment of reach and significance of research impact on the economy, society, culture, public policy, health, the environment and quality of life
- Impact assessed through the submission of a number of case studies including impact summaries, underlying research, references to research (inc. beyond academic papers)
- Impact at various geographic scales and size of audience
- Impact evidence and indicators of impact can be submitted as part of case studies

Library contributions:

- Helping to measure impact
- Helping to generate impact

- Panels will assess the research environment for each submitted unit
- Approaches to enabling impact, contribution to vitality and sustainability of the discipline
- Institution-level environment statement and unit-level environment statement
 1. the context and mission of the institution
 2. the institution's strategy for research and enabling impact for the current assessment period and for the next 5 year period (inc. open research)
 3. staff (inc. how staff and students receive support and training, equality and diversity initiatives)
 4. income, infrastructure and facilities that support research (inc. structures that support the reproducibility of research and facilitation of impact)

- Libraries at the heart of the institution?
- In REF 2014, libraries were rarely mentioned directly/indirectly: 'every student has library access', 'world class libraries are nearby'
- Missed opportunities for recognition

The screenshot shows the REF 2014 website interface. At the top, there is a search bar with the text "Search REF 2014..." and a "Go" button. Below the search bar is a navigation menu with links for "Publications", "Results & submissions", "Expert panels", "Equality & diversity", "About the REF", "FAQs", and "Contact".

The main content area is titled "Research Excellence Framework" and includes a brief description of the REF system. Below this, there is a section titled "The research of 154 UK universities was assessed" which lists the following statistics:

- They made 1,911 submissions including:
 - 52,061 academic staff
 - 191,150 research outputs
 - 6,975 impact case studies

The overall quality of submissions was judged, on average to be:

- ★★★★★ 30% world-leading (4*)
- ★★★★ 46% internationally excellent (3*)
- ★★★ 20% recognised internationally (2*)
- ★ 3% recognised nationally (1*)

On the right side of the page, there is a sidebar with the heading "REF 2014 - key links" and several links:

- 2014 REF Results and submissions
- Evaluation of the 2014 REF
- REF Manager's report (March 2015)
- Panel overview reports (Jan 2015)
- EDAP's report on equality and diversity (Jan 2015)
- Key facts leaflet about the REF

Below the sidebar, there is another section titled "REF impact case studies" which states: "A searchable online database and an initial analysis of REF impact case studies are available."

What can libraries do practically to support the REF?

What do libraries do to support research, which can be highlighted in environment statements?

Libraries ensure research resources are discoverable and accessible

- Traditional role of library as content provider is still important but libraries go well beyond providing copies of submitted papers
- Good libraries help institutions to recruit and retain the best researchers (RLUK 2011): what innovations has your library developed to serve researchers beyond the norm ?
- Innovations in: reading list provision, library management system or discovery layer, access to resources and content delivery?
- Attempts to decolonise collections?
- LSHTM responsive collections project
- SOAS attempts to diversify catalogue

Improving research practice: information and organisation skills

- Literature review and systematic review support across the project lifetime
- Training in databases and software, e.g. referencing software
- Improving quality of funding applications and contributing directly to research outputs
- Research Data Management services also contribute to good quality grant applications
- "support for early career researchers and career development at all stages...; support mechanisms for, and evidence of the training and supervision of, postgraduate research (PGR) students"

Complete this form if you would like to sub-contract a librarian to work with you on a systematic review.

A librarian will contact you within two working days to discuss capacity within the Library team, and details of your review.

Costs are calculated per hour and depend on the size and complexity of the review.

This service is only available for reviews where a current member of LSHTM staff is a named author.

Research support services

- Open research roles have developed a lot since REF 2014
- Management of a CRIS is business critical: what has been published, and by which authors?
- Analyses and reports are generated by librarians.
- CRIS-like functionality developed for EPrints and DSpace repositories
- Libraries have worked with open source and proprietary software to ensure accessibility and discoverability of research outputs, including unpublished works
- Generating DOIs for unpublished work
- Accessibility of non-text-based outputs

The screenshot displays the UAL Research Online interface. At the top, the 'ual:' logo is on the left, and 'UAL Research Online' and 'Deposit Your Research' are on the right. A navigation menu includes 'Home', 'Latest', 'Statistics', 'UAL Research', and 'Contact'. A search bar is present with 'Advanced search' and 'Saved searches' links. The main content area shows the breadcrumb 'Browse > Research Type > Art/Design Item'. On the left, a 'Browse by:' sidebar lists filters for Creator, Subject, College, UAL Research Centre, Research type, Year, and File format. The main results area includes an 'Up a level' link, an 'Export as' dropdown set to 'ASCII Citation', and an 'Export' button. Below this, there are links for 'Group by: Date | Creators | No Gr' and a 'Jump to:' list of years from 1994 to 2019. The total number of items is 1426. Two items are listed for the year 2019: 'Raban, William (2019) Laki Haze. [Art/Design Item]' and 'Voss, Georgina (2019) Precenting The Line. [Art/Design Item]'.

Research indicators and generating impact

- Leading on initiatives like San Francisco Declaration on Research Assessment (DORA) and the UK Scholarly Communications License (UK-SCL)
- Support for bibliometrics and altmetrics: integration in repositories, Altmetric Explorer database
- Guidance on use of social media and networking sites, working closely with press offices and knowledge exchange officers
- LSHTM: internal communications about high attention research
- University of Manchester: open access+ deposit workflow
- "How the unit has sought to enable and/or facilitate the achievement of impact arising from their research..."

Date of acceptance

I would like my paper to be considered for payment of a Gold Open Access fee or other publication charge (UKRI/COAF-funded authors only)

This paper has the potential to generate media coverage and I'd like it to be considered for publicity by the University's Media Relations team

I would like to receive customised guidance to help raise the visibility of my paper once published, and for the Library to promote the paper via its social media channels.

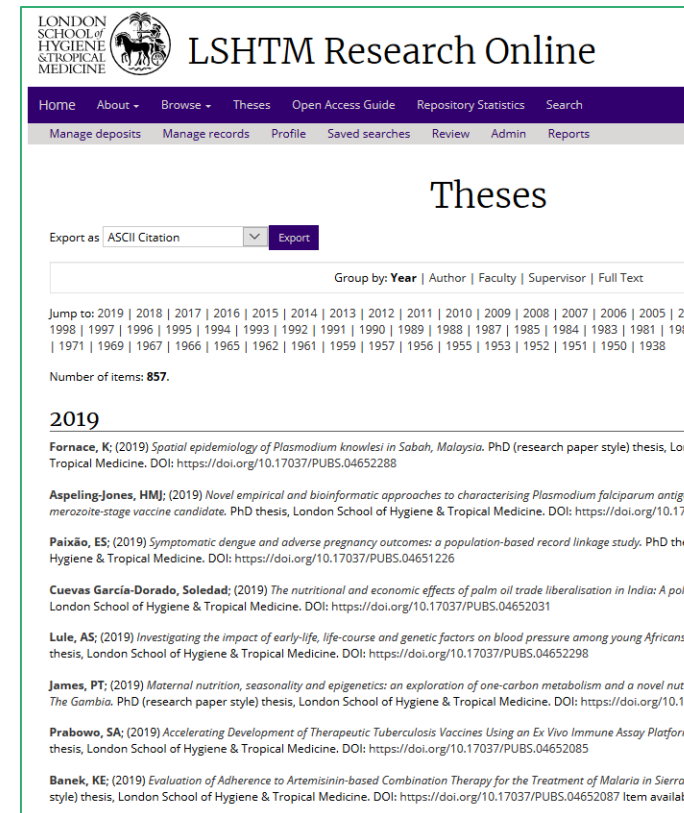

Equality and diversity

- Highlight work of the library in supporting equality and diversity (e.g. in relation to research-related promotion and reward procedures, recruitment, and support for funding applications)
- Creating accessible spaces and access to resources
- Copyright advice
- DORA/Responsible Metrics

Open research initiatives

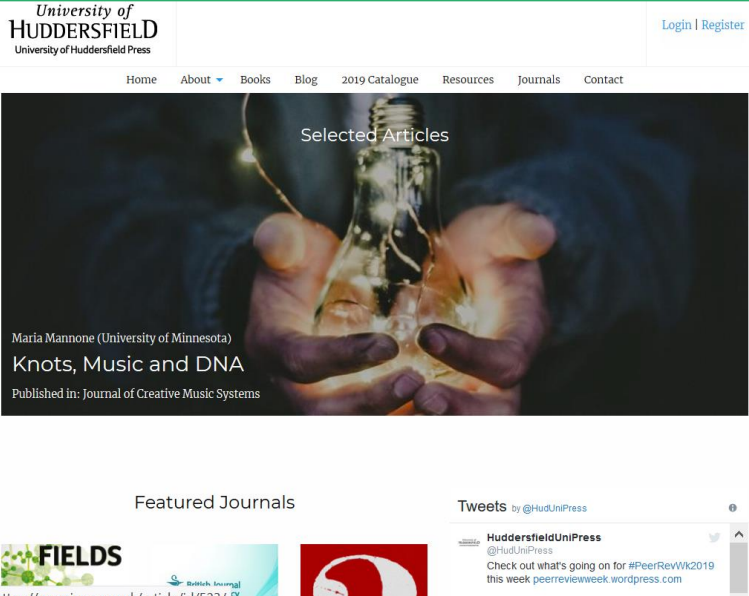

- OA teams increase OA policy compliance, ensuring articles can be submitted to the REF
- Innovative cross-institution working, use of tools like Unpaywall, Lantern, and creation of communities like London Open Access Network (LOAN)
- Technical skills ensure discoverability via Google Scholar, Core.ac.uk, etc.
- Training delivered to students and staff
- Doctoral student initiatives have included copyright training, e-thesis policies and e-thesis digitisation projects
- Encourage dissemination and re-use of research outputs

The screenshot shows the 'Theses' page on the LSHTM Research Online website. The page features a navigation menu with options like 'Home', 'About', 'Browse', 'Theses', 'Open Access Guide', 'Repository Statistics', and 'Search'. Below the menu, there are links for 'Manage deposits', 'Manage records', 'Profile', 'Saved searches', 'Review', 'Admin', and 'Reports'. The main heading is 'Theses', and there is an 'Export as' dropdown menu set to 'ASCII Citation' with an 'Export' button. A search bar is present with a 'Group by' dropdown menu showing options like 'Year', 'Author', 'Faculty', 'Supervisor', and 'Full Text'. A list of theses is displayed, including titles, authors, and DOIs. The year '2019' is highlighted, and the total number of items is shown as 857.

Open research initiatives

- Open research support across the research lifecycle
- Research data management services: data management plans, securing and transferring data, sharing data, reproducibility
- LSHTM: building in the idea of 'open' from an early stage
- University of Edinburgh: MANTRA RDM training platform
- Open access publishing: from OJS and Janeway installations to Ubiquity Press hosting – libraries as leaders in the institution
- Pre-prints, open peer review, digital humanities projects

Conclusions

- Libraries may not always be good at shouting about their successes
- Libraries contribute directly to REF submission processes, as well as providing excellent research support which can be referenced in REF Environment statements
- Make sure library initiatives are related to university strategy
- Get in touch with REF Officers
- Draft paragraphs about library contributions to the research environment
- Challenges include staff time and skills development, e.g. leadership and assertiveness, but can built on existing strengths, e.g. communication with different audiences
- Libraries are 'business-critical' and contribute to the process of producing 'excellent' research
